Town Manager Takes Action Against Piggery

A piggery in South Wilmington, known locally as Harvey's Piggery, and the scene of a difficult fire last Thursday afternoon, became the subject of further action, last night, when Dean Cushing, the Town Manager, instituted various actions designed to abate the nuisance at that place.

Long the subject of complaints from neighbors, and a continual headache to the local Board of Health, the piggery has become particularly noisome since the fire of last Thursday. Dead pigs, bloated and fly bearing, lie around in mud and garbage, while other pigs, dying during the week have been the subject of repeated complaints, as they wandered around. The Police have visited the place often, but, because of the necessity of complying fully with the law, have been unable to do anything and have found their hands to be tied in their efforts to have the situation remedied.

At no time were the police able to contact the owner of the pigs, although there was no doubt that he had visited the police. His visits apparently, co-incided with the police absences.

Meanwhile the neighborhood of the piggery has been subjected to increasing odors, and visits from flies and other vermin, and the entire neighborhood is up in arms.

Harold W. McKelvey, a well known Border Avenue resident called Dr. Ulado Getting, State Commissioner of Public Health, yesterday afternoon, and complained to that authority about the situation. He was told that the State would take action at once to protect the citizens of Wilmington.

Dean Cushing, Town Manager, long cognizant of the situation, and the man to whom many of the complaints have been addressed, issued orders to the Wilmington Police Department, at 4 p.m. yesterday, to take certain actions, in regards to the piggery.

The Board of Health met last night, to consider further action. Mr. McKelvey appeared before the Board, shortly after the Board had inspected the piggery.

The Board of Health, late last night, issued an order designed to abate the nuisance.

A PRINTING ERROR

Because of an error in our printing shop, material not intended for the Crusader was included in this week's issue. The item entitled "School Calendar," on page 5, has nothing to do with the Town of Wilmington.

FRED CAIN'S BLUE JACKETS BEAT NATION WIDE STORES

The second game of the North Reading Softball League was won by the Wilmington team, who defeated the North Reading Nation Wide Stores, by a score of 10-7.

Nation Wide went down to a 10 to 7 defeat at the hands of the local club Monday night, June 2nd, at the North Reading field. The game was highlighted by head up ball on both teams.

Cain's took an early lead, in the first inning, with four runs being scored with Jack Nolan and Russ Horthy each knocking a homer. Nation Wide came back in the third, when their pitcher knocked a homer, and Donny Eaton retaliated in the top of the third, with another four bagger, with one on. Nation Wide had a four run rally in the first of the fifth, but Wilmington had the edge, and kept it for the remainder of the game, with another homer in the sixth by Russ Hartley.

There was one double play, with Nolan making the catch, tagging out the man advancing to second, and relaying to Joe Woods, for the put-out at first.

The home town team played heads up ball, all the way, and would like to see some more of the Townies at their next game, which will be next Monday night, at the Red Hill Country Club.

THE NORTH WILMINGTON RAILROAD CROSSING

In some ways we cannot blame the Boston & Maine Railroad, in its attempt to reduce costs, but we feel constrained to state that the recent tragic death, at the North Wilmington crossing was foreseen, by those persons who objected to the installation of those automatic gates.

The persons who objected, at the DPU hearing, in the State House, several years ago, pointed out to the nearby public school, and to the speed of the trains, at this point.

We feel certain that if the old gentleman who was the last station agent had been present that this death would not have occurred.

SUMMER DAY CAMPS

Each year the Crusader receives information from the Wakefield YMCA, and the Woburn YMCA, relative to their Summer Day Camps. The Woburn Y has not, as yet, sent us any information, but we have received word that the Wakefield Y will run their camp, as usual.

The Wakefield camp will be in the Harold Parker State Forest, and will run for 8 weeks, from June 23 thru August 15th. It is strictly a day camp, the children being brought home each evening. Bus transportation is available from Wakefield, and arrangements may be made for Wilmington children.

The boys camp runs on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, and the girls camp runs on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

The cost is $5 a week, $40 for the season, and in addition the child must be a member, or a summer member. The cost of the later is $1. Each child is to bring his own lunch. Free milk is provided. Campers must sign up for at least two weeks.

The number in Wakefield is CRystal 9-0047. Mrs. May Bliss, of Glen Road can furnish more information to Wilmington residents who may be interested.

WILMINGTON AND THE TELEPHONE COMPANY

The Baldwin Civic Association sent its representatives in to the Boston office of the New England Tel. & Tel. Co. last Thursday, to inquire into the proposed plan of the telephone company for Wilmington. This was done, not in a spirit of malice, but of inquiry concerning the best interests of the town.

The New England Tel. & Tel. explained that it has found the Boston service area is too large. When the area was developed, many years ago, it was very large, compared to other parts of the country. Since then it has become unwieldy, and the mechanics of keeping track of various calls made, has become very costly. These costs, of course, have to be passed on to the subscriber.

If the company were able to reduce this area, they would, but at the present time they are unable to see their way clear.

However, they do not intend to enlarge it. If they give way in any one place, they will have to then give way in other places, and the costs would pyramid.

The alternative, as the company sees it, is to develop around each city and town a service of contiguous areas. Thus they can give the most service, as desired by the subscriber, without increasing costs too greatly.

The plan which was presented to Wilmington was not unique. The company has presented the same plan to other areas, and would like to do the same for some of the present Greater Boston districts.

The company charts, for each town, the percentage of toll calls to other towns nearby. This is a continuous process, which is charted, for the use of their engineers. As the percentages change, and if any adjoining town shows a trend of increased calls, this then becomes an area of "continuous" service.

Such a trend has been shown in the calls to Lowell, Woburn and Reading, from this town. It is for this reason that this service was offered. It was not that Wilmington is being put into the Lowell exchange, for it isn't. It is rather that Wilmington is being offered a greater service, to three "contiguous" towns, namely Lowell, Woburn and Reading. Of course there is a greater charge, but, the company explained, the average subscriber, will soon be calling these towns even more than before.

The company has promised to write an open letter to the people of Wilmington, through the columns of this paper, in which they will endeavor to take up some of the points which were discussed by the Baldwin Association.

Your editor went in to, the company with the possible thought that somebody was trying to do wrong by our Nell. He is now willing to accept the offer as the best one that we can get under the circumstances.

VIRGINIA ANSTEY BECOMES BRIDE OF JOHN O'CONNELL

Miss Virginia Kathleen Anstey, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harris W. Anstey of Parker Street became the bride of John David O'Connell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo O'Connell, of 5 Hunt Road, at 3 p.m., May 18th at St. Thomas Church.

Beautifully attired in a white satin gown, with illusion yoke, and fingertip veil, and a crown of seed pearls, the bride carried for flowers, an orchid with streamers of stephanotis, and white prayer book. She was given in marriage by her father, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Regan.

The Matron of Honor was a sister in law of the bride, Mrs. Estelle Anstey, of Wilmington, who wore a pink ballerina length gown of net and lace. The bridesmaids were two sisters of the bride, Miss Shirley Anstey of Wilmington and Mrs. Margaret Steenhott of Thompson's Island, Boston. They wore gowns of aqua, which matched that of the matron of honor, and carried old fashioned bouquets and wore matching flowers in their hair.

Leo P. O'Connell, the brother of the groom, was best man, while ushers were Donald O'Connell of Wilmington and Richard O'Connell of Lawrence, and William Anstey of Wilmington and Elmo Anstey of the United States Navy, stationed in Newport, Rhode Island.

Organ music was provided by Mrs. Estelle Shelley.

After the wedding, a reception was held in the East Wilmington Betterment Hall, which was beautifully decorated with white streamers, with the wedding cake in the center of the table. For the receiving line the bride's mother wore a brown and white sheer dress, with white accessories, and the groom's mother wore a navy suit, with pink and navy accessories. Both Ladies wore corsages of mixed flowers.

For the bride's going away ensemble she chose an ice blue navy gabardine suit, with navy and white accessories, and an orchid corsage.

After a wedding trip to the White Mountains, the couple will be at home at Parker Street, Wilmington.

TELEVISION NEWS

BY JACK MOORE

Does your TV set occasionally have white lines running diagonally across the screen? Those are the vertical retrace lines and are eliminated by the brightness controls. Turn the brightness down, just to the point where these lines disappear.

There are some programs such as films that would be more pleasing to the eye if the brightness control could be adjusted for more brightness—but if you do, then the objectionable retrace lines appear. They also appear when the station is televising a night scene. In some of the later sets, these lines are blanked out entirely so that they don't appear regardless of the brightness control setting.

This feature can be added to any TV set, and in most cases, our service department can make this change right in your home at regular standard rates.

READERS' FORUM

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

June 2, 1952

My Dear Sir:—

In 1948 following correspondence with the Lowell manager of the New England Telephone Co., I made an appointment with several top men of the organization in Boston, these including the Chief Engineer for New England. I asked at that time if it could be possible at a small monthly rate increase, to extend unlimited service from Wilmington to the seven towns surrounding us, and how long it would take for such a changeover to be achieved.

I attended three such conferences and was informed at the final one that a serious shortage of the new Coaxial cable would make it impossible for some time to consider any change whatsoever.

They further informed me that my plan if followed, would establish a precedent by which every small town could request that it be set up as a hub with its lines radiating out of all towns immediately surrounding it, and that the only avenues of development open to us would probably be inclusion in the Lowell "family" to the north or the Boston "family" to the south. They declared their unwillingness to expand the gigantic Boston network already considerably top-heavy; furthermore even if we were included in the Southern hook-up we would still have to pay the present toll charges for all down-town Boston calls. Therefore our program of expansion must needs be to the north, which would give us an excellent return for our advanced rates.

I reported all this to the Crusader and to the Baldwin Civic Assn. at the time and the report evoked little interest and no discussion. A few months ago the Telephone Co. conducted a fair and square plebiscite through the mails asking a simple "yes" or "no" to the question of extension of service generally northward for a reasonable advance in monthly rates. The answer was overwhelmingly in favor of the change.

If the Baldwin or any other association wanted a campaign against it why did they not do so at that time? I think their spokesmen are butting their heads against a stone wall in attempting at this stage to upset the expressed verdict of the majority of the telephone subscribers.

The sarcastic little slogan—"Whom do you know in Dracut?" which is being tossed around our town today will make no impression on the intelligent who realize that on our free service ere long will be not only to little Dracut but to Lowell, Reading, Woburn, and Chelmsford. I honestly believe that Lowell with its splendid stores has already supplanted Boston (with its traffic horrors) as a favorite shopping center for the majority of Wilmington's housewives, and Reading and Woburn calls are a daily necessity to hundreds of our families. However, the plan has been voted in, the polls are closed, votes counted, results announced and according to free American system that settles it. I believe it to be an excellent step in a forward direction.

Very truly yours
Irving Appleby

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

In last weeks Crusader, Mr. William Altman brought up the point that in the recent poll of telephone subscribers, a substantial part of them live in Tewksbury. That is an excellent point, and I do believe it has been given much consideration heretofore.

Out of curiosity, I figured the substantial part to be over 16% of the Wilmington listing. They may not sound very substantial, but when you consider the possibility that most all of the Tewksbury subscribers were in favor because of their proximity to Lowell, then deducted their 16% in favor and 50 percent against.

Mr. Altman's point is well taken and the N.E.T. & T. should give a satisfactory answer.

Also, the Wilmington CRUSADER, in the interests of Wilmington telephone subscribers should conduct a poll to determine how much in favor Wilmington subscribers really are of a change. They threw a poll at us. Let's throw another one back.

Yours truly,
A. T.

CENTER SENIORS LEAD IN BOOSTER LEAGUE

The Center continued to lead the Senior Division by beating Silver Lake 8-0. Nicky Moore allowed only one hit to the losers and led his team at bat with three doubles.

On Friday night the Lake team bounced back by defeating North Wilmington, 13-9. Fuller and Filippone were the hitting stars for the winners while Doug Anderson had a grand slam home run for the losers.

In the Junior Division, the Center was forced to forfeit its game to Silver Lake last Monday by the score of 9-0. On Wednesday night however, Silver Lake was set back by North Wilmington. Robert Doucette and Butch McFeeters had two hits apiece for the winners.

The schedule for this week:

SENIORS:—
Tuesday - North Wilmington at Center.

Friday - North Wilmington at Silver Lake.

JUNIORS:—
Monday - North Wilmington at Center.

Wednesday - North Wilmington at Silver Lake.

NEW ROOF

The Sciarappa home, on Andover Road is receiving extensive repairs on its roof.

With part of the building dating back to before the town was founded, in 1730, this is one of the oldest in town. It was for many years the home of the Pearson family, and was inhabited about 100 years ago by Nathan Pearson, one of whose sons invented the Pearson Galvanized Nail.

TRAFFIC LIGHT

The traffic light, at Perry's Corner is in operation.

MEMORIAL DAY

The turnout, at Memorial Day, was very good. The parade was well organized. Everything went very well, and everyone was quite pleased. Probably the most impressive moment, during the morning, was the reading of the Roll Call of the Dead, by Commander William Simmons, of the VFW.

AUNT SUSIE HALE

We are going to take out a little time, to talk about Aunt Susie Hale, of Aldrich Road. This gallant old lady, approaching 92, took time to tell us, a short while ago, a story we think should go with any Memorial Day, in Wilmington.

When My Daddy Came Home From The War (Civil War, that is)

My daddy was James Hale, who came down from New Hampshire, to work on the railroad, when they were laying the track from Boston to North Wilmington. He used to do the blasting, for the railroad. He laid the foundations for the bridge over the railroad, near the Wilmington Reading line.

I can remember when my father came home from the Civil War. Of course I was only five years old, but I remember it just as plain as day. A little later, Hugh Murray who lived in the house across the street, came home, and he came into our kitchen, in our house, and crouched down so as to be the same height as a little girl, like me, and he opened up his arms for me. I was afraid. My father said "It is all right, Sis, that's Mr. Murray" so I went over and sat on his knee, and I remember counting the brass buttons on his coat.

That was three or four wars ago, and we thought that there would never be any more wars!

Editors Note: Hugh Murray, the grandfather of Mrs. Emma Sargent, lived in the house now owned by Frank Gray, of Woburn Street. James Hale, lived in the McKittrick house, across the street.

MRS. LAFIONATIS' MOTH

We looked-up that moth, the one which Mrs. Dorothy Lationatus captured last week. Our readers will remember that the only moth we were able to find which anywhere near answered the description was 'Actias Selene', a moth which inhabits the jungles of Assam.

The moth is of the species 'Actias Leach' according to the Moth Book, by Holland, in the Boston Public Library, and we quote from that source:

"The geuns is quite large, but only one species occurs in North America. It is better represented in the Old World."

(1) Actias Luna Linnaeus, (The Luna Moth).

This common and well known insect has an extensive range from Canada to Florida and westward to Texas and the Trans Mississippi States as far as the Great Plains. The larva feed upon various species of Walnut and Hickory, the Sweet Gum, and, in North Carolina, it appeared to be particularly fond of persimmon. The cocoon is thin and papery, and falls to the ground in the autumn."

Mrs. Lafionatis' Moth is the Actias Luna Linnaeus, or the Luna Moth.

A TOUGH BLOW

When the Wilmington High School team was forced to bow to Pynchard last Saturday, the Lowell Suburban League scoring was settled. The game, which was a play-off, was to see if the Wilmington or Pynchard was to open in the League Series, in Braves Field, on June 3rd. Because Wilmington lost that game, it does not play in the League Series.

SHOWER FOR MRS. HARTLEY

A surprise shower was tended to Mrs. Helen Hartley, of South Street, last Friday evening, at the home of Mrs. Marion Cain, of Cottage Street.

The Cain home was very tastefully decorated in pink and blue for the occasion. Baby dolls hung from streamers, and each guest received one, when leaving. There were many gifts, and the party was very much enjoyed.

Among the guests were Mrs. Richard Bowen, Mrs. Laura Donahue, Mrs. Mildred Cushing, and Mrs. Mary Bemis. Over 40 guests were present from Wilmington, Tewksbury, Malden, Charlestown, Jamaica Plain and South Boston.

KILLED BY TRAIN AT NO. WILMINGTON STATION

Mrs. Margaret Coffin, 67, of 3 Paris Place, East Boston, was instantly killed by a Southbound express train, at 12:40 p.m. May 31st, when she attempted to cross in front of the train. The accident occurred at the Middlesex Avenue crossing, in North Wilmington.

Mrs. Coffin, who had been visiting with her son, William Donovan, of Carolyn Road, North Wilmington, had left his home to take the 1:10 p.m. train to Boston.

She approached the railroad depot, and probably heard the whistle from train No. 14, the Dover to Boston express, and is thought to have assumed that this train was the 1:10. She ducked under the gates and attempted to cross in front of the train.

According to witnesses, Mrs. Coffin failed by one foot, in her attempt. The train, which was speeding at about 70 miles per hour, struck the unfortunate lady, threw her against a low mound 20 feet away behind the gate post, on the south side of the track, from which she bounced and then traveled through the air for another 80 feet, and landed near a railroad siding. The body was disintegrating as a result of the impact by the train and the first bounce, and parts of the body landed in other parts of the yard. The body must have been knocked at least ten feet into the air, during the last portion of its journey, for it passed over a workman's tool box, a box about 3 feet high, in the last part of its trajectory.

Witnesses included Mr. and Mrs. Louis Roderick, of 10 Cliff Street, Stoneham, who had stopped their car on the South side of the track, and were within half a dozen feet of the unfortunate woman when she was struck, and W. R. Stevens of Glendale Circle, who was near the station, on the opposite side of the tracks.

The engineer of the train, W. Shaw, assumed the death to be suicide, according to the reports that he is supposed to have given upon arrival at Boston. The Conductor was J. R. Royce.

Wilmington police were called at 12:45 p.m. Officers Imbimbo and George Fuller responded in the police ambulance, while Deputy Chief Hoban drove up in the police cruiser. Officer Shepard also responded to the call. The remains were placed in the McMahon Funeral coach. Father Shea, of St. Thomas Church administered last rites.

Identification was made by the son of Mrs. Coffin, William Donovan. He identified the wristwatch and a handbag. Identification of the body was impossible.

OVER 100 PIGS PERISH

IN FIRE NEAR WOBURN LINE

Over 100 pigs were killed, by burning and suffocation, and another 8 were shot by the Wilmington Police, in a fire which occurred near the North Woburn line, last Thursday.

Nearly all of the Wilmington apparatus, and a truck from the Woburn Department responded to the alarm, which was rung in the Wilmington station at 1:25 p.m. It had been telephoned in, from a home about a half mile distant from the fire.

The piggery, owned by John Harvey of Charlestown, a man well known locally, was located on a rocky, inaccessible part of Cook's hill, near the Woburn line. The only road to the place was of the poorest character, and was barely usable by the apparatus. There was no nearby source of water, and it was necessary to truck water for nearly half a mile.

A heavy downpour of rain retarded the efforts of the fire-fighters. The fires, being inside buildings, were not put out, but the mud outside the buildings was incremented, as a result of the rain.

About 3:20 p.m. as the fire was getting under control, an alarm was heard from the Wilmington station. Because of the woods and hills an accurate count could not be made of the number blown on the alarm.

Chief Boudreau, with some of his fire-fighters, left the scene of the fire in one of the fire trucks, and drove out to Warner's filling station, half a mile away, to learn the scene of the new fire. They were told there, that it was a building only 100 feet from the first fire, and they then returned.

The second fire was caused by lightning, or a short circuit, and was in a dwelling, owned by John Carter, an known locally as the "Diehill House."

The piggery fire was thought to have started from an untended incinerator.
